'TIS THE SEASON FOR GIVING

I love Christmas. I think I actually prefer the build up, rather than the big day itself.

It's the planning and preparations I really enjoy. Making the Christmas cards, buying the wrapping paper and crackers, it's really all the little touches and traditions I love. Christmas baking consists of making sausage rolls and mince pies with loved ones from traditional recipes from my Nan before the big day.

My absolute favourite is collecting the holly from the woods, decorating the house and putting the Christmas tree up. It takes a whole weekend as I like to make it an event. The first glass of mulled wine is poured this weekend, the Christmas tunes on and let the festivities begin!

My Christmas theme for the home is rustic sentimental. Decor has been bought over the years or gifted by friends and family. I always have a real tree and have collected Christmas decorations where I have travelled around the world. My most treasured are from India, the Paris Christmas markets and the handmade designs by family - these are priceless.

The Fuschia Studio decor is bright and funky with lots of colour and quirky decorations, so a contrast to my home living space.

I hope you enjoy browsing our very first Christmas Gift Guide, it is filled with pages of ideas and inspiration to surprise and delight. Whether you are looking for a secret Santa gift, stocking fillers, a gift for him or her and not forgetting the avid globetrotter. I hope you find something to put a smile on someone's face this Christmas.

Have a wonderful Christmas and New Year, wishing you every happiness and good health for 2023 and thank you once again for your support.
